Dear Sir/ Madame,

The main aim of the 9th BioForum edition is to create biobusiness network within CE Region and between booming Central European biotech and mature US and Western Europe biobusiness.

Nowadays, BioForum 2010 is the largest Central Europe event for (bio)science and (bio)business interaction. Scientists involved in biotechnological R&D projects and industry representatives interested in innovative technologies derived from biotechnology, molecular biology, biochemistry, biophysics etc. meet here to start cooperation.

BioForum visitors are given a unique possibility to dive into the sea of valuable, applicable R&D projects gathered in one place at the same time and to explore the biotech potential of countries such as Hungary, Czech Republic, Poland, Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia.

The results of previous edition BioForum 2009 were better than the organizer supposed. More than 800 participants – representatives from 10 countries (mainly from Poland), 60 exhibitors, presentation more than 80 R&D Projects, 230 biobusiness meetings (BioPartnering) – that are only some examples and effects of this edition of Central European Forum of Biotechnology & Innovative BioEconomy – BioForum 2009.

BioForum 2009 Partners - the key institutions and companies from Central Europe in LifeScience and biotechnology-related sector, e.g.: Hungarian Biotechnology Association (Hungary), Tartu Biotechnology Park (Estonia), ScanBalt BioRegion, Lithuanian Innovation Centre (Lithuania), Latvian Biotechnology Association (Latvia), CzechBio (Czech Republic), Wrocław Research Center EIT+ (Poland), Life Science Cluster Krakow (Poland) and The Steinbeis Network (Germany).

On one hand, BioForum 2010 is the opportunity for Central Europe to become the source of innovative biotechnologies, on the other hand, it is the chance for world biotechnology leaders to find new products in this region.

We offer your company to become the EXHIBITOR of this unique event. Exhibitor booth will maximize the visibility of your company in Central Europe and present your company as the patron of emerging Central European biotechnology.
